ACE 'INDESTRUCTIBLE'

Legend of Flier Grows as Navy Takes 3 From Raft, 3 From Island Near Samoa.

(Picture on Page 10)

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Capt. Eddie V. Rickenbacker, the indestructible man of aviation, has been rescued from the Pacific after one of the greatest sea-air hunts in modern history, the navy announced today.

Three weeks after the world was informed that the flying ace of World war I was missing somewhere south of Hawaii, a navy Catalina flying boat found the 52-year-old flier floating with two comrades in a life raft.

Rickenbacker, survivor of scores of adventures in which death seemed just around the corner, was in sufficiently good condition to be able to report to his rescuers that one of his crew men—Sgt. Alexander Kaczmazczyk—died several days ago and was buried at sea.

With the iron-man captain were Col. Hans C. Adamson and Pvt. John F. Bartek and on a small island in the same general area, a naval search plane located Lieut. James C. Whitaker, Lieut. John D. De Angelus and Staff Sgt. James Reynolds, other members of the crew of Rickenbacker's plane.

With the rescue of Capt. William T. Cherry, jr., previously announced this week, all Rickenbacker's crew are now accounted for.

The navy said both Rickenbacker and Adamson were in good condition but that Private Bartek's state was serious. The private is expected to recover, however.

Mrs. Rickenbacker Thanks Army and Navy for Rescue

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Mrs. Eddie Rickenbacker expressed her thanks today for "the wonderful co-operation of the army and navy" in rescuing her husband from the Pacific.

"I have just been advised by Gen. H. H. Arnold (chief of the army air corps) of my husband's rescue," Mrs. Rickenbacker said. "Of course, the tension we have all been under began to be a little relieved yesterday by the discovery of Capt. William T. Cherry, Jr., the pilot of the ship.

"The war department's thorough and efficient search brought about their ultimate rescue. I cannot speak too highly of the wonderful co-operation of the army and navy and I wish I could thank everyone who participated personally.

"I have not a doubt in my mind about the wonderful reception given them by the men on that rubber raft when they were found.

"As stated before, my belief in the resourcefulness of this wonderful group of men, to say nothing of the constant prayers of Eddie's thousands of admirers and friends, would make it possible for them to withstand the strain until rescued."

TRAINMEN HURT

WARREN —(U.P.)— Three trainmen were injured slightly today in a collision of Erie railroad freight trains near the Warren passenger station where double tracks are so located that there is not clearance for two trains to pass, Erie said at Cleveland.

Plans to Put Spur Under Contractor

Grimes Declares He Will Demand Paving of 30-N South Lane.

Vance T. Grimes, Ashland, state highway department division engineer, declared today he will demand that Lombardo Brothers, Cleveland contractors, complete the south lane of the U. S. Route 30-N project west of Mansfield before "knocking off" for the winter.

Grimes expressed the belief that dirt could be removed from the Erie railroad subway site and hauled to the fill east of the B. & O. railroad overhead passage by late next week, clearing the way for pouring of concrete the week of Nov. 23.

Although Highway Director Hal Sours announced in Columbus yesterday that he would immediately contact Grimes to order this part of the job done, Grimes said today he had not received any word, indicating the highway department is continuing the dilly-dallying attitude toward this job which started 17 months ago with a completion deadline of Nov. 30.

"Regardless of the deadline or department action on the 90-day extension request, the south strip should and must be opened to east and west travel by early December," Grimes told a News-Journal reporter today.

Grimes explained that a steam shovel is removing 500 cubic yards of dirt daily from the Erie site. A small fleet of trucks hauls this to the fill opening off West Fourth street. The division engineer said about 8,000 cubic yards must be removed from beneath the Erie structure to permit extending the south lane to a junction with the westward continuation of Route 30.

Temporary junction will be completed with West Fourth street, Grimes said, in accordance with announcements yesterday by Ira Baker, federal project engineer. Grimes said he is hopeful that fair and not too cold weather will prevail.

If concrete cannot be laid for the end junctions, Grimes said, a traffic-bound connection will be

IT'LL WARM UP

Weatherman Says Cold Wave To Lift by Tonight.

Relief from a cold wave of mid-winter severity that dropped the mercury to 18 degrees in Mansfield today was predicted for this afternoon or tonight by the weatherman.

Unofficial readings as low as 16 above were reported in the county this morning as the first cold of the season overspread Ohio in the wake of northwest gales that left a path of damage along the southern shore of Lake Erie.

The wind which forced Mansfielders to hold onto their hats yesterday diminished during the night as the mercury went down.

Rising Costs, Lack of Stock Force Veteran Store to Close.

CHARDON—(U.P.)—The general store at Hambden, Geauga county, which has been in continuous operation for more than 100 years has closed its doors.

Clayton Smith, owner of the building housing the store and its operator for 20 years, will return to his old trade as a barber. He said rising costs and inability to replace stocks forced him to close the store.

DENY REPORT

Brazil Officials Discount Story of Guiana Invasion.

RIO DE JANEIRO—(U.P.)—Official government quarters today denied a report circulated by the German-controlled Paris radio that Brazil had invaded French Guiana.

Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha at a press conference earlier this week said that if such action is carried out it would be after consultation and probably jointly with the United States.

Mother Arranges Birthday Surprise For Daughter From Far-Off Hawaii

News-Journal Acts In Role of 'Go-Between' to Plan Party.

Planned by "remote control" in Hawaii with The News-Journal as the "go-between," a birthday party was held in Mansfield yesterday for Miss Mary Jane Lutts, 118 South Main street, who said it was the best birthday she ever had.

Plans for the party, which included a big birthday cake, were completed in September by Miss Lutts' mother, Mrs. C. W. Lutts, who is in Honolulu.

The News-Journal had the novel role of ordering and delivering the cake on instructions from Mrs. Lutts.

In September she wrote The News-Journal and enclosed a check, asking that the cake be purchased from the Buckeye bakery and delivered to her daughter on her 25th birthday, Nov. 13.

The orders were carried out by John W. Graham, general manager and Fred "Pete" Martin, proprietor of the bakery, prepared the cake while The News-Journal delivered it to Miss Lutts in time for her party. On the cake was this greeting: "Happy birthday from Honolulu."

It all came as a surprise for Miss Lutts who is employed at the Westinghouse plant. Her sister, Mrs. Margaret Valk, helped her celebrate her anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Lutts left Mansfield about two years ago for Honolulu where he is an instructor in sheet metal work at the navy by the Charles Hoffman company.

Her birthday cake relayed from Honolulu.

HOPE 'MOP-UP' BRINGS VICTORY

War Chest, $9,237 Short of Goal, Ends Drive With Last Report Tonight.

Determined to raise the last $9,237 needed for victory, War Chests Commandos today cleared their schedules of all else for a "mop-up" drive to cross their $140,377 goal by nightfall.

No report sessions are scheduled until the final one today at 8 p. m., Major General Fred B. Hout said, explaining that "they (the Commandos) are out working right up to the deadline to reach the goal."

Hout said that since the Commandos began to hit tough sledding, Commando headquarters have been contacted by a number of persons wishing to increase their pledges. Others, missed in the pledge card collection, have been turning them in at headquarters at the Y. M. C. A.

"We can't say for sure that we'll be over the top because we won't know until tonight what this 'mop-up' will produce," Hout said. "We do know that after our last report figures yesterday, there were very few sources left from which we could expect the total to be increased. We're hoping that tonight's final figures will be sufficient to put it across."

WIND DID IT

Blows Ohioan Into Path Of Erie Passenger Train.

YOUNGSTOWN —(U.P.)— Lindsay Clark, 46, was injured seriously when a strong wind blew him across a slippery pavement into the path of an Erie passenger train.

While on the way to pick up Clark, Youngstown's new $4,000 ambulance skidded into a utility pole last night.

Wins $6,000 In Bank Night 'Insurance' on Friday, 13th

From now on, you'll have a tough time convincing Harry G. Duke, 30 North Adams street, that Friday the 13th is a day of bad luck.

You might even be able to convince him that a broken mirror, or walking under a ladder or any of the other common bad luck superstitions mean nothing.

For Duke, an employe of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, won $6,000 yesterday, on bank night insurance policies.

Duke held a policy with each of the "companies" writing bank night insurance. Yesterday's award at the Warner theaters was $1,000. Duke wasn't at the theater—maybe that could classify as bad luck—for if he had been, he would have won $7,000 instead of $6,000.

Acquisition of sudden riches didn't disturb the even tenor of Duke's life. He was at work, as usual, at the Westinghouse plant this morning.

He didn't want to talk to News-Journal reporters or see photographers, he said.

Duke's $6,000 winning was the largest in the history of bank night in Mansfield. The previous high was $5,200.

But since Duke wasn't at the theater, and therefore couldn't claim the award there, next week's prize will go to $1,100. So, since the insurance writers have to meet the amount offered by the theater, they were the only ones to suffer, and thus could consider Friday the 13th as an unlucky day.

ASSURES U. S.

Elmer Davis Challenges Claim Navy Losing Pacific War.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — War Information Director Elmer Davis, challenging allegations that the navy is losing the Pacific war, today assured the nation that is being kept fully informed of war developments.

He declined direct comment on sweeping charges by Rep. Melvin Maas, R., Minn., that official communiques have misled the people by reporting naval disasters as victories; that there is lack of unified command both in Washington and the Pacific. But, he said significantly:

"Every time the Japs have met the American fleet, they've run away. That must indicate that they don't think they've beaten us."

Newark Man Tries to Warm Self. Does Too Good a Job!

NEWARK —(INS)— It was rather chilly this morning, so when J. C. Cole, of Newark, arose from his bed he stood in front of an open fireplace.

Hospital attendants reported Cole suffered burns on his back and legs. Firemen prevented further property damage.

AXIS CALLS AFRICA MOVE 'MISFORTUNE'

Projecting Major Plan to Counteract Advantage Gained by Allies.

NAZIS ALTER DEFENSES

Turkey Reported Shifting Troops to Meet Possible Threat From Germans.

(By United Press)

ANKARA, Turkey — (Delayed) —(U.P.)—The Axis considers the Allied offensive in North Africa "a great misfortune" for its European defenses and is projecting a major plan to counteract the advantage it gained for the United States and Great Britain, military sources believed today.

An Italian diplomat admitted that the American landing in the French possessions changed the entire strategy of the present phase of the war and it was reported that even Franz Von Papen, veteran German ambassador who is close to Adolf Hitler, had described the operation as "a great misfortune" for Axis plans.

Germany appeared, according to military informants, to be planning a redistribution of its European defenses. Whether such plans might include an attempt to occupy the Iberian peninsula and Turkey was under intense discussion here, particularly in conferences between the Turkish foreign office and the Spanish and Portuguese ambassadors.

(London press reports said today that Turkey had shifted a big army to the Trebigond area, bordering the Black sea and that many troops had been sent north to "meet possible Nazi threats" from the Germans, who were reoccupying the Greek coast in force. The London dispatches said Turkey and other middle eastern states were "drawing closer to the United Nations.")

Even before the United States launched its invasion troops against North Africa, military sources pointed out, Germany had intended to complete its domination of the Mediterranean.

German defenses in Russia were believed to be stronger than at the start of last winter and military quarters believed the Germans planned a large scale withdrawal of troops.

WORK ON PORT

Pavers May Be on Job Sunday To Finish Airport.

Laying of asphalt on the new 2,500-foot municipal airport runway will start Sunday or Monday, officials of the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company told City Engineer W. C. Statler this morning.

"We must take advantage of every hour of fair weather," declared Carl Stander of the paving firm, who said that employes who might work tomorrow will be compensated in pay and time off later in the week.

Increase in plane arrivals and departures due to expansion of the Army-Navy cadet training program at the Harrington Air Service requires emergency completion of the new strip, port officials pointed out.

Allies Reported Streaming Across Border as France's Garrison Opens Fight With Nazis For Key African Colony.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(U.P.)—Radio Vichy said today that advices from Tangier reported a terrific naval battle appeared to be in progress in the waters off Gibraltar.

(By United Press)

The battle for Tunisia appeared to be under way today.

The French garrison at Tunis and possibly other points was reported to be fighting Nazi forces which Adolf Hitler sent in to "protect" the French colony.

The London press reported that the vanguard of Lieut. Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson's British First army and American troops was believed to have crossed into Tunisia this morning. U. S. parachutists were reported in action.

There was no official confirmation that the Anglo-American army had entered Tunisia but the swift march of events made it likely that such news would be forthcoming.

Dispatches from Allied headquarters in North Africa told of fierce fighting between French garrisons and the Nazi "protection" troops. The Tunisia air fields were under continued attack by Allied planes, apparently operating not only from the established bases at Malta but from the new fields in French North Africa.

Both the Nazi-controlled Paris radio and the Vichy radio asserted that the British First army crossed into Tunisia from Algeria shortly after dawn this morning. This report was not confirmed by Allied sources.

Axis sources also claimed that a great naval and air battle was raging off Algiers.

Reports from Spain said that a heavy concentration of Allied warships steamed away from Gibraltar with a heavy cover of fighter planes, presumably headed for the scene of the reported naval action.

The North African dispatches said that the Germans had brought in 12 and 15-ton tanks by air to reinforce their position on the ground in Tunisia. About 150 Axis divebombers were said to be operating from Tunisian bases.

However, continued uncertainty as to whether the Axis actually intended to make a firm stand in Tunisia was raised by the British communique from Cairo.

This reported that a flight of 60 Axis planes heading north, apparently from Tunisia and bound for Sicily, was intercepted by Royal Air Force fighters. Seven of the planes were destroyed and others damaged.

This followed yesterday's report that half a dozen big Italian plane transports filled with Germans were shot down flying north from Tunisia.

The air movements led some observers in London to believe the Germans planned only a temporary stand in Tunisia, long enough to destroy important defense installations and delay the advance of the British and Americans to the Tripolitania line.

SOFTENED: Jap Guadalcanal Positions Bombarded by U. S.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The navy announced today that a series of naval engagements that commenced on the night of Nov. 12 in the Solomon island area are still in progress, and that both sides have suffered losses.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Main Japanese positions on northwestern Guadalcanal today were believed to have been softened up for further advances by American forces following a punishing 10-hour daylight bombardment by U. S. warships.

Possibility that a Japanese carrier force may be in the vicinity of the southeastern Solomons was suggested by the fact that a large force of enemy torpedo bombers was sent against the American warships, a move proving costly to the attackers.

The Japanese paid heavily for their interruption of the naval bombardment. Out of the attacking force of 23 torpedo bombers and eight Zero fighters, 30 were shot down. Only one managed to escape.

This engagement followed by only 24 hours another air fight in which 17 Jap planes were destroyed.

The air attack occurred at 2:15 p. m. Thursday (Island Time), bringing to an end the naval bombardment which had begun at dawn.

Two of the American warships were damaged, but apparently not seriously. The 10,000 ton heavy cruiser San Fran-

PRAISE: Stalin Says African Thrust Gives Edge to Allies

(Editor's Note: Less than six weeks ago, Henry C. Cassidy, chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Moscow, scored a journalistic coup when he obtained from Joseph Stalin a written statement expressing for the first time the Soviet premier's views on the second front question. Now Cassidy has scored again by obtaining from Stalin his reactions to the Allied thrust into North Africa.)

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

(Copyright, 1942, by Associated Press)

MOSCOW — Joseph Stalin gave high praise today to the American and British campaign in North Africa and declared that it had created the prerequisites for a second front in Europe and shifted the political and military situation in Europe "in favor of the Anglo-Soviet-American coalition."

In his second letter to this correspondent in six weeks, the Soviet leader said the operations in North Africa could have been executed only by "first rate organizers" and pledged that "the Red army will fulfill its task with honor as it has been fulfilling it throughout the war."

The Soviet leader said the North African campaign would result in "a certain relief in pressure" on the Soviet Union in the near future and provided the "prospects of the disintegration of the Italo-German coalition."

The authorized English translation of the text of Stalin's letter follows.

"Dear Mr. Cassidy:

"I am answering your questions which reached me on Nov. 12.

"One. What is the Soviet view of the Allied campaign in Africa?

"Answer. The Soviet view of this

The $64 Questions.

(They're bothering Broadway —can you answer them?)

Has Al Vanderbilt proposed to K. T. Stevens again—and has she said "yes"? . . . Have you heard that Vera Zorina will make a surprise appearance in the ballet of the opera "La Vie Parisienne" because Balanchine is doing the dances? . . . Is it true that there are now eight new proponents of prohibition in the house of representatives? . . . Did Elmer Davis try to resign again? . . . Are George Raft and Norma Shearer at the bared fangs stage because of a crack he allegedly made at a Hollywood nitery? . . . Is Commissioner Moss going to wave his scissors at the cafe floor shows following his blitz on the legitimate stage? . . . Isn't the second front news wonderful?

Kilgallen

Do you know that the writers of the Hobo News will hold their convention at the Gay Blades rink? . . . Did you know that major colleges—NYU, for instance —will feature their girls' basketball teams this Winter, because of a scarcity of male players? . . . What well-known society figure employs a maid who was a spy for Germany in the last war? . . . Will the Errol Flynn scandal result in the revision of all "morality" clauses in film contracts? . . . Is that Broadway producer who predicted "there will be more vaudeville shows than musical comedies by November" wearing a red face? . . . Do you know that Benay Venuta really makes those divine hats she wears? . . . Do you think the limitation on train travel will bring back the stage coach?

Do the news desks know they could get wonderful stories about Washington biggies if they watched the stage doors at the hit shows over the week-ends? . . . Is Morton Downey going to Hollywood as a result of his Savoy-Plaza smash? . . . Do you know that Vera Shea and Tom Cassara are colder than the Russian winter? . . . Isn't it quaint the way the angry waiters at the very swank bistro dished up a Mickey to the joint's most unpopular employe—by putting it into a cream-puff? . . . What's the truth about the health of Alan Gale, the comic who created a sensation on Broadway last year—and where is he? . . . How seriously do you take the headlines that Betty Hutton will marry Perc Westmore "after the war?" . . . Do you know that the Fifth Avenue shoppe that lent fur coats to the girls in the Versailles show has already sold six of them, right off the floor?

Aren't you wishing for another Bert Lahr musical? . . . Did you ever see such unflattering photographs as those on the new admission cards the Stage Door Canteen volunteers have to flash to get in? . . . Do you realize that even with all sorts of rationing, we still eat three times as much food per person as any other country in the world?

Is Jed Harris the "mysterious" author of the comedy "To the Purple," which he's going to produce this season? . . . Is it true, as returning correspondents claim, that Rudolph Hess has attempted suicide three times? . . . Do you know the identities of the biggies who are shivering for fear that one of the girls in the Flynn case may not stop with naming Flynn? Do you know that the pickets outside a famous street spot were carrying signs that weren't union made —so they had to dash away and get new signs made?

Is Elizabeth Bergner coming back to Broadway in an anti Nazi play? . . . Do you know the WAAC's are looking for recruits who play trombone, sousaphone, French horn, baritone and cymbals . . . Don't Audrey Christie and her new husband, Donald Briggs, make a handsome pair? . . . Will M.G.M. give "Angel Street" a romantic finish? . . . Do you know that Christmas card manufacturers have tripled production because you won't be able to send Christmas wires this year? . . . Why does Oscar Levant introduce Edith Atwater (Mrs. Hugh Marlowe) as "the future Miss Edith Atwater?"

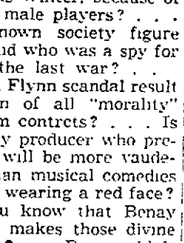
HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

(First of a series of three columns on how the new tax program is affecting Hollywood.)

HOLLYWOOD—Will it be "back to the tubs" for the fairy queens of the movies? Is Cinderella, freshly sparkling in her party finery after years in the scullery, headed back for the cellar? Is Hollywood—last stronghold of the rags-to-riches dream—all washed up?

It's probably too early to gauge the full effect of the executive decree slapping a $25,000 ceiling on salaries — in a community where $25,000 was regarded, until recent years of heavy taxes, as a low rung on the cinema's social-financial ladder.



Coons

Right away it was apparent, however, that Hollywood was reeling. Not so much at the decree, which had been foreshadowed, as at its terms. Anybody who had earned about $65,000 in 1942 prior to Oct. 27 couldn't draw another pay-check until year's end. If you earned that much, presumably you'd have $25,000 left "after taxes" and—that was that.

Any big star you could name, provided he had a contract or made a picture early this year, topped that figure months ago. The same would apply to many little stars, to directors, executives, writers — all the big money people of the town. Overnight, no more mazuma.

No more, that is, unless the individual earner hadn't yet received as much as he or she had made in all of 1941—a detail to give the bookkeepers a few more headaches.

There were the usual patriotic expressions from some of the stars. "Anything Uncle Sam wants," and so on. I didn't hear any statements from their business managers—not out loud for publication. I heard plenty of wailing, not so sotto voce, from the agents, sometimes called 10-per-centers or flesh-peddlers. The general tenor of their cries was "We're ruined . . . We're out of business the next two months. . . . I can't meet my overhead on 10 per cent of nothing."

B. G. (BUDDY) DE SYLVA, production boss at Paramount, overheard this lament and others. De Sylva, as studio executive, as song writer, as Broadway producer and playwright, has one of those incomes to make Secretary Morgenthau grin with delight. De Sylva, close to the wailing wall, laughed and laughed.

A good many people in Hollywood laughed and laughed whether in amusement, hysteria, or fright. Almost everybody seemed to realize that a revolution had struck, and that the old Hollywood was no more.

AFL AND CIO PEACE OUTLOOK RATHER CLOUDY

BULLETIN

BOSTON—(U.P.)—Philip Murray of Pittsburgh has been re-elected to a third term as president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

(By International News Service)

BOSTON — Prospects of peace between the CIO and the AFL did not appear too bright today following the windup of the CIO'S fifth constitutional convention.

The CIO, through its spokesman, President Philip Murray, made it clear that its peace committee was not entering the forthcoming negotiations with the AFL committee with any rosy expectations.

It was significant that Murray, at this convention, and William Green, president of the AFL, at the AFL'S recent convention in Toronto, both left John L. Lewis out of the picture in discussing labor unity.

Lewis, while not the dominant figure he was when he headed the CIO, still is a factor as president of the powerful United Mine Workers of America.

Lewis got rougher treatment in Boston from his CIO friends than was accorded him in Toronto by the AFL. The AFL virtually ignored him, but at this convention the delegates of the CIO stood silent for ten seconds "in memory of Big John," as Murray put it. After this mock burial, Murray took occasion to call Lewis an "established national prevaricator" and then the convention adopted a resolution condemning the man who had founded the CIO seven years ago.

Murray, discussing the forthcoming peace meeting with the AFL, said he was going in good faith, without animosity toward anyone, and with an open mind. But, he added: "I shall not, in a mad desire to effectuate a peace, tear from under this labor movement the rock upon which it was built."

Murray was unanimously elected president as one of the final acts of the convention. He announced just before adjournment that the CIO executive council would hold a meeting today, at which matters of policy will be discussed.

ARREST CABBY

Police Say Governor Allows 55-Mile-an-Hour Speed.

Police check of a taxicab governor last night showed the vehicle attained a speed of 55 miles an hour despite an existing city ordinance specifying a 35-mile governor adjustment.

Patrolmen Richard Hecht and John Grohol arrested Henry Schultries, Jr., 18, of 288 Beymiller street, on the charge of speeding 43 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone on Park avenue west. The patrolmen said they then tested the cab for governor control, determining the 55-mile maximum. The cab belongs to the DeLuxe Cab firm.

Spencer T. Gage, Mansfield R. D. 3, posted $16.30 bond and waived hearing when arrested by Motorcycle Patrolman Arthur Conrady who charged him with speeding 50 miles an hour on Park avenue west.

Richard E. Paulin, Jeromesville, forfeited bond of $16.30 in municipal court today after being charged by state highway patrolmen with speeding 70 miles an hour on Route 41-N.

Probe Ruins of Kaiser Dormitory For More Bodies

VANCOUVER, Wash. — (U.P.) — Firemen dug into the ruins of a Henry J. Kaiser shipyard workers' dormitory today, fearing they would find more victims of a fire in which at least six persons were burned to death.

Their search was hampered by the heat still emanating from the smoldering ruins of the newly-completed Hudson house, a plywood unit of the sprawling Kaiser housing project.

The fire started late yesterday in the linen room of the building. Its cause was not determined.

More than 100 persons were in the dormitory. At first it was believed that all had escaped, but the charred bodies of six victims were recovered last night.

About 40 persons, six of them women, suffered burns as they fled to safety.

MORE ZINC

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Increased use of zinc by newspapers, photo-engravers and others using zinc plates in printing has been authorized by the war production board for the three months beginning Nov. 15.

The order permits use of 75 per cent of the amount required in the corresponding period a year ago. A reduction to 50 per cent of last year's needs will become effective again after Feb. 15, the WPB said.

BLACKOUT VIOLATOR FINED

U. S. OFFERS FOOD AND ARMS TO NORTH AFRICA, OTHER ALLIES

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The first move toward furnishing food and arms to liberated peoples so they can join in fighting the Axis had been made today with extension of lend-lease aid to North Africa.

President Roosevelt initiated the program last night. A White House announcement made it clear that, while the immediate objective was North Africa, the same assistance would be given all territories occupied by United States forces.

Mr. Roosevelt's order provided for all Europe and other regions where the effects of brutal aggression have been felt.

White House Secretary Stephen Early announced that the president had directed Lend-Lease Administrator Edward R. Stettinius to make the supplies and material available to North Africa as soon as possible. Early then quoted the president as saying:

"No one will go hungry or without other means of livelihood in any territory occupied by United Nations, if it is humanly within our power to have the necessary supplies available to them. Weapons also will be supplied to the peoples of these territories to hasten the defeat of our common enemies."

Other sources indicated that from now on lend-lease aid will be used increasingly as part of the political and economic warfare accompanying actual combat. It will offer strong temptations to the peoples of France, Norway, the Low Countries and even Italy, who have gone hungry and ragged under Axis rule.

Lieut.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of American forces in Africa, will supervise distribution of the lend-lease supplies.

CORRECTS ERROR

Auto Club Says All Licensed Cars Eligible For Rations.

Jack Berger, secretary of the Richland County Auto club, corrected a mistaken impression today that owners of more than one automobile are not entitled to gas ration cards for all their cars.

County clerks' offices in Richland and surrounding counties have been jammed for several days by owners who are transferring title to their "extra" cars to other members of their family, believing that they must do that to get ration cards for the cars.

Berger said ration cards will be issued for all licensed cars and not on the basis of ownership and a person with two cars will be able to get an "A" card for both of them even if both are registered in his name. This was confirmed by the rationing board.

DRIVER TURNS IN 31 TIRES

They're All His And Many Of Them Are New, Too.

MEDINA—(U.P.)—Charles Robinson, Railway Express agent, was surprised to see a man drive up with a truck load of tires. "Do these tires all belong to you?" Robinson asked.

"Yes, all 31 of them are mine," said the man with a note of regret. He had to turn them in to comply with the gasoline rationing regulation of only five tires for each vehicle.

Robinson said that more than half of the tires were in their original wrappings and that the rest had been recapped.

Up and Down THE STREET

Seeking wings and the natty red epaulets of the Civil Air Patrol, Robert C. Remy, president of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, is undergoing intensive training at a New Jersey air base. Vice president and secretary of the A. F. Remy company, the Chamber executive does not anticipate a return to Mansfield until after the duration. Remy studied aviation at the Harrington Air Service civil aeronautics school, winning his private pilot's license about six months ago. He owns a two-seated training plane and a four-place Fairchild cabin ship which he probably will lease to the air force command when he is assigned to active duty in the coastal patrol service.

Fathers of Mansfield high school football players braved the elements and pneumonia along with about 1,200 fans at Stadium field last night as the Tygers met Toledo Woodward high school. Wearing numbers corresponding to those worn by their sons on the field, the fathers occupied a bench alongside the playing field where they cheered and groaned as the occasion demanded, and shivered all the time. Yes, it was Dad's night. They picked a fine night, 22 degrees above zero.

Six Ohio State football fans from Columbus, enroute to the game today in Cleveland, were noisily discussing the probable score and making their bets while having breakfast this morning in a Mansfield restaurant. Suddenly one of them asked solemnly: "What if Illinois wins?" The discussion stopped and nothing was said for several seconds. Then one of them commented, "We hadn't thought of that, had we?"

MONUMENT CITY, Ind.—(INS)—Search for Modoc, elusive fugitive elephant, centered in the Monument City area today.

The runaway pachyderm who has been on the loose for more than two days, spurned efforts of her keepers to lure her back by the trumpet calls of two stablemates, Empress and Judy.

Meanwhile, another casualty, the second, was laid at Modoc's door. Kenneth Kindley, 35-year-old farmer who joined the hunt, suffered critical injuries when the lumbering beast swiped him with her trunk and rolled on him. Doctors said Kindley, who was taken to the Huntington county hospital, may have a broken neck.

TELLS GRANGE DEMANDS ARE ON INCREASE

President's Message Shares Spotlight With Criticism Of Rubber Program.

(By Associated Press)

WENATCHEE — President Roosevelt told the nation's Grangers today, in a special message to their 76th national convention, that "in this war, the need for American food and other farm products is almost without limit."

"This year American farmers made a magnificent response to the demands upon them," the president said in a message to the Grange master, Albert S. Goss. "Those demands are increasing; so are the obstacles in meeting them.

"The rural families of the United States face many sacrifices, many difficulties. The nation looks to them to produce the food we need to win this war, and to fulfill all their other wartime obligations as citizens. As in the past, the great farm organizations have a large place in helping farmers work together for victory."

In a message as one Granger to another—the president has been a member of the Chapel Corners Grange in Dutchess county, New York, for 27 years—the chief executive expressed the belief that "in all its long history, the National Grange never has met at a time when the nation depended more upon its farmers, and farmers faced so many grave decisions. I say this is the knowledge that the Grange was born in the very shadow of the Civil war. . . ."

The president's message shared convention interest with a sharply critical report on the synthetic rubber situation by E. T. Taylor, chairman of the Grange's transportation committee.

Denouncing what he charged were obstacles placed in the way of synthetic rubber development by selfish interests, Taylor, master of the Idaho State Grange, reported that a new and secret miracle process had been devised.

He said the process was "just about as simple as dropping some potatoes, wheat or beans in a kettle, adding some gelatine, cooking it a while and then putting on your new tires and driving away."

The secret process, Taylor said, has been offered to the war production board and "would eliminate even the necessity of making alcohol in the process, but so far we have had no encouragement."

He said the process would produce synthetic rubber at less than 10 cents a pound and that production from farm products could be started in one-third the time it would take under the petroleum process.

Taylor charged that "the greed of the rubber, petroleum and industrial alcohol industries," fearing post-war competition, was blocking development of the synthetic rubber processes.

Suspect Facing 100 Year Term Turns Up as MP

NEW YORK — (INS) — Even Sherlock Holmes would not seek the arch criminals of his fictional career in Scotland Yard—but then truth is always stranger than fiction.

Assistant district Attorney Sol Gelb today is taking steps to obtain custody of Tony Albanese, alleged hold-up man and bail jumper who faces 100 years in jail and who, Gleb said, turned up as a military policeman with the U. S. army.

Thirty-one-year-old Albanese, who is married and the father of a child, was to have appeared yesterday for pleading to five-count indictment charging robbery and grand larceny. When he failed to show up, authorities investigated and according to Gelb, found him assigned as an MP to the New York induction center.

Albanese, Gelb asserted, originally classified as 3-A in the draft, had requested his local board for reclassification and volunteered.

BATTLE RAGES FOR CONTROL OVER TUNISIA

U. S. Paratroops, British Are Reported Rushing to Aid Of French Garrison.

Axis in the Mediterranean was steadily increasing.

The Royal Air Force made another of its sweeping assaults on Genoa, the Italian port through which flows most of the Axis supplies and reinforcements for the south, during the night. The attack was one of the heaviest yet and Rome admitted it caused severe damage.

At the same time the British 8th army continued its relentless pressure on Marshal Erwin Rommel from the east, driving past Gazala, 38 miles beyond Tobruk, and sending its planes fanning out in a wide arc—deep into Libya and Tripolitanio and ranging over the Mediterranean—in order to hamper every effort of Rommel to reorganize and regroup his forces for another strong stand.

There seemed to be no indication that Rommel was even contemplating a stand at any point this side of El Aghelia on the Gulf of Sirte and he might well withdraw all the way into Tripolitania before making a halt.

The British command at Cairo estimated the Axis losses in the western desert thus far as no less than 12 divisions—practically the whole of Rommel's Afrika Korps. As he retreats, however, it was assumed that he is picking up some reinforcements from the rear garrisons which before the start of the offensive were estimated at about 100.000 troops.

The status of Admiral Jean Francois Darlan who has been busy negotiating with the American high command at Algiers remained in some doubt.

A Havas French news agency dispatch from Algiers reported yesterday that Darlan had announced he was assuming responsibility for French interests in North Africa in agreement with the U. S. army.

In addition, the purported Darlan statement was couched in terms implying the tacit support of Marshal Henry Philippe Petain.

Today, however, Petain issued a statement disavowing Darlan.

Actually, if seemed likely that American military officers were using Darlan as a card in the game of quickly solidifying French Africa, including Tunisia, and possibly Senegal, behind the Allies.

Moscow reported that a German attack on a factory district in Stalingrad had been held off and that Soviet troops in the Caucasus made small gains.

In the Far East Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported that his Boeing bombers attacked the Japanese anchorage in the Buin-Faisi area and scored hits on two light cruisers and damaged a destroyer and an 8.000-ton troop transport. The Australians advanced another two and a half miles toward Buna in New Guinea.

The Japanese imperial headquarters reported that a battleship had been damaged and two destroyers lost in a naval action in the Solomons in which they claimed six Allied cruisers and a destroyer were sunk and two cruisers and three destroyers damaged. In addition, Tokyo said, three transports were sunk and 16 planes destroyed.

Petain Challenges Darlan's Authority

LONDON—(INS)—Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, Vichy French chief of government, today challenged the authority of Admiral Jean Francois Darlan to assume responsibility for French interests in American-occupied North Africa. Petain ordered French troops not to take any action against Axis forces.

Petain's message to French North Africa forces referred specifically to Darlan's order to French colonials to cease resistance against Allied troops.

Petain wired Darlan, according to the German - controlled Vichy radio:

"In accordance with my orders you undertook to defend North Africa but the decision you have taken is in violation and contrary to my orders, and therefore I am issuing an order to the African army not to take any action against Axis forces and so increase the misfortunes of France."

Darlan had been quoted as saying in a broadcast from Algiers, according to the London Daily Mail, that "I assume responsibility for French interests in Africa and have the approval of American authorities."

LESSON-SERMON FOR SCIENTISTS

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in the Church of Christ, Scientist Sunday.

It will have for the Golden Text: "The earnest expectation of the creature waiteth for the manifestation of the sons of God" (Romans 8:19).

Included in the citations which compromise the Lesson-Sermon are the following correlative passages from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy: and as is heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly. And as we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly" (I Corinthians 15:-48, 49. "We know that all will be changed 'in the twinkling of an eye,' when the last trump shall sound; but this last call of wisdom cannot come till mortals have already yielded to each lesser call in the growth of Christian character."—Science and Health, P. 291).

RICKENBACKER FOUND ALIVE

air forces, were last heard from on Oct. 21 when they radioed they had enough gasoline for only another hour of flight.

They were flying south from Oahu to a destination in the South Pacific at the time. On Oct. 23 the navy revealed that the plane was missing. Search for the survivors had been under way ever since—a search unequaled since Amelia Earhart disappeared in the same general area years ago in time of peace.

The rescue was another chapter in the growing legend of Rickenbacker's indestructibility. As an automobile racer before World war I he took chances that would have killed another. In France he never counted the odds against him when fighting the Germans. He became the nation's greatest ace of that conflict.

In the years of peace which followed the Rickenbacker legend grew. On Feb. 27, 1941, it seemed for a while that the last chapter had been written. A passenger plane of the Eastern Air Lines, of which Rickenbacker was president, crashed near Atlanta, Ga.

Rickenbacker was aboard. He was critically hurt. For hours he lay pinned in the wreckage. But he fought off unconsciousness, warned rescuers and others not to light matches, which might have made a funeral pyre out of the gasolin-soaked wreck. He even gave directions for getting the others out.

Eight persons died in that crash but Rickenbacker, after weeks in a hospital, recovered.

When the second World war broke out, Rickenbacker at once offered his services. Shortly before starting the Pacific flight, he had returned from Great Britain where he made a special study for Stimson of army air forces personnel and equipment in the European theater.

He was on a similar inspection mission last October when the cryptic message reached Honolulu that his plane was running out of fuel.

The search for Rickenbacker was a joint effort by the army and navy. Long-range army bombers and navy PBY flying boats criss-crossed the Pacific wastes where it was believed the crew members might be floating in their little yellow life rafts.

The search was rewarded by the finding of Cherry, pilot of the missing plane, this week. He was in good condition and is expected to recover from his ordeal.

Both Rickenbacker and Adamson were reported in good condition. Private Bartek, however, was in a serious state, it was said, but he is expected to recover.

How the three men located on the island are faring was not immediately determined. A U. S. Navy medical officer has been flown to the island, however, and they will be returned to a naval base in the Pacific.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1942.

Drive carefully tomorrow—because of recent more careful driving, thousands are still living who would otherwise be dead.

Simile: As optimistic as the one-time bank night winner who patronizes the "guarantee" racket each week—hoping to repeat.

It may be assumed that Harry Hopkins, permanent White House guest, was adequately compensated for his current magazine article in which he tells all Americans of the greater hardships they are destined to endure.

Avoid Compulsion Unless Necessary

WHEN conflicting views are expressed, either by government officials or spokesmen for interested groups, on such subjects as extending the 40-hour week and compulsory distribution of civilian manpower, it appears that differences are based largely on opinions as to how much force need be applied by the United States in winning the war.

There can be no doubt that upholders of each side of this controversy are equally earnest in their determination to defeat the Axis powers.

Probably not one of those who contend for maintenance of a 40-hour week, with extra pay for overtime, would object to working 60, 80, or 100 hours a week, without ANY pay, if war should finally come close enough to bring recognized danger that a bomb might be dropped on their home at any moment, as is now being experienced by people in many countries.

But, as matters now stand, they are unimpressed by the idea that there is any such danger—or that there ever will be—and they believe that the war can be won without serious sacrifices on their part—which also appears to be the belief of President Roosevelt, judged by his attitude in seeking to preserve what he calls "social gains."

For a time there were those who argued that induction into military service should be entirely on a voluntary basis—but this was quickly recognized as impracticable in building an army of sufficient size to successfully combat strong enemies, and the selective service act was hurried into operation.

With government plans now calling for an army of 9,700,000 within another year, and with the work of six persons required to provide equipment, food and other supplies for each man in the service, it seems quite clear that work on the home front cannot be done in a hap-hazard way if military precision and effectiveness is to be maintained on the war fronts.

Voluntary selection of wartime jobs will be the natural first choice—if the war can be as quickly won that way. A 40-hour week has advantages in the extra leisure thus made possible, and it is also an excellent device in reducing unemployment—but soldiers do not win wars on a 40-hour week basis, nor do they receive overtime pay. In fact they are not even asked whether they would prefer being sent to the Solomons or to Africa.

Whatever positions are taken, or decisions made, on such subjects as hours, wages and assignment to civilian employment, the all-important matter seems to be what procedure will best serve to end the war quickly, with least possible loss of lives.

War Traffic Comes First

WHEN your passenger train happens to be a little late, or if it doesn't contain a super-deluxe lounge car and other fancy accessories, don't start kicking at the railroads. For the railroads are just as much interested in serving you as ever—but war traffic comes first.

That war traffic reaches staggering totals. In a recent six-months' period, more than 5,000,000 troops were moved—not counting soldiers on leave. Freight trains are delivering some 3,000 carloads to eastern seaports every day. Tank cars are taking 800,000 barrels of oil daily into the East—where in normal times they carried only about 12,000. The railroads are successfully doing a job that skeptics said couldn't be done.

While doing this, they are carrying on their service in civilian America. In all essentials, that service is as good as it was before the war. But, now and then, a train may be delayed because it had to wait for war trains to pass. Luxury lounge cars have been taken out of service, by order of the Office of Defense Transportation, because regular types of cars of the same size can carry more passengers. Those are small "inconveniences" to pay for expediting the troop trains and the war freights.

The traveling public can help—by not traveling except when necessary, by making reservations as far ahead of time as possible, by not engaging more Pullman space than is actually needed, and by not demanding needless special services. It's also wise to not travel on holidays and over week-ends if you can avoid it.

Temporary or Permanent Workers?

WOMEN of this country are coming forward gallantly to take men's places in business and industry, as men are called into the fighting forces. It is a natural procedure, which has always occurred to some extent in wartime, but the overturn now is much greater than ever before.

It has brought one big change that is new to this country. Women by millions enter the factories. Not merely clothing factories and some others that involve no real novelty, because they represent mere mechanical extensions of handwork that women have done for ages. The big change now is in the women assuming men's jobs in steel mills and factories where they handle big and complex machinery.

All this is necessary, patriotic and admirable. Without these industrial recruits such a war could not be fought. There isn't much worry about it now, but there may be headaches ahead. What will happen when the war is over and the women face the loss of good pay and independence?

Hitler promised his Munich barroom audience that he won't run out on them, "like the kaiser did"—but he's already changed his mind on several other subjects.

Is it democracy when twelve selfish senators can tell one hundred and thirty million people that they can't use their own silver?

After all, it seems rather hypercritical to object to Mr. Willkie's pronunciation of "reservoir," and to Mr. Dewey's mustache.

It is a doctor, of course, who is responsible for the information that "women's ankles are growing thicker."

READY FOR HIS COUNTRY'S CALL

Politicians View African Move

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — If the very general view is accepted that one of the reasons for the unexpectedly heavy gains by the Republicans in the election was widespread dissatisfaction with the prosecution of the war, then the Democrats fell a victim to unfortunate timing for the first time since 1930, when the Democratic victories in the congressional election foreshadowed the Roosevelt landslide over Hoover in 1932.

The point is that if the election had been held on November 10 instead of November 3 the voters would have gone to the polls all in a rash of enthusiasm about what their government was doing in the war, as a result of the landing in Northwest Africa. Not only that, but it is thought here that a great many voters who on November 3 remained home would have voted. Vice President Wallace roused many jeers around the Capitol when he said the trouble about the election was that too many Democrats did not vote. But it was not half as funny as it sounded to the jeerers.

STRONG party men in general, and Democrats more so than others for some reason, hate to go all the way in a protest vote. If they are sore with the actions of their own party leaders, and particularly of the candidates for whom they are being asked to vote, they are apt to stay home. Not all of them, of course. Some of them will hold their noses and vote the ticket anyhow. Some will exercise the full force of their ability to protest by voting for the opposition candidates. But a surprising number will take the half way step of not voting at all.

Mr. Wallace did not allude to that. He placed more emphasis on the number of young men off with the fighting forces, implying that it was youth which supported the New Deal.

But it was actually much more the old Democratic custom of sulking when politically disappointed—"going fishing" on election day as they put it through the border states.

Why this dissatisfaction?

Most shrewd old politicians in Washington are convinced that it was due to the conviction that the government was not doing its utmost in the war effort. Here and there were indications that people did not like the tremendous attempt to carry on social and economic reform at the expense of the war effort.

EVERYONE agrees that one of the reasons Senator Josh Lee staged the biggest surprise of the election by being defeated in overwhelmingly Democratic Oklahoma was his attempt to force a prohibition rider on the teen age draft bill. This does not by any means indicate that Oklahoma is a politically wet state. But there is a time and place for all things, and even some ardent Drys did not like attempting to force another gain for prohibition if the price should be delay for a needed war measure.

But it is not the big surprise, like Oklahoma and West Virginia, for which there are special reasons, which is important here. It is the general trend—the protest vote against the administration. A protest which could have been mollified, if not eliminated, had the Northwest African landing been exploited two days before election. No one knows this, of course, better than President Roosevelt, a consummate politician. Hence it is to his credit that he did not beat the gun by speeding up the landing.

Listen World!

About 'Will Power'

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU CERTAINLY admire these forward folks with gobs of Will Power, don't you? Especially these days.

Coming home from the night shift at the docks with your back aching and your brain feeling like a ravelled sponge, you look with envy at the old chap who strides beside you so resolutely. Must be 60 at least, that ancient relic. But look how he carries on—sprightly as any man on the job. Will Power, that's the trick. Lucky devil to be born with a punch like that!

Or perhaps you're a weary, worried wife, dragging yourself out of bed at 6 a. m. to fix breakfast and your husband's lunch and get the youngsters off to school. Shuffling around the cold room, half awake, there came to you those sprightly pictures in the ads. Beauteous young creatures in glamorous house coats, preparing balanced diets all full of vitamins, waving their loved ones away with an inspired smile.

Wonderful to be a wife like that! But you haven't what it takes. You weren't made that way. They've Pep and Get-t'em and Will Power; you're just a flat tire. That's the way you were born.

Flat tire? Stop kidding yourself! You weren't born with a lifelong handicap. Nor were these people you envy gifted with a couple of wallops in each baby fist.

They have Will Power, yes. But Will Power isn't something that's handed to you on a silver platter at the moment of birth. Nor something that comes from your father's "side of the family." It's something you make for yourself or don't make.

Will Power isn't an inherent characteristic nor the surge of a sudden, inspired impulse, nor is it wish fulfillment. Will Power is the result of all your past experiences and decisions . . . the accumulation of your forgotten victories or surrenders.

You determine your Will Power a thousand times a day. Every time you shrink from some frightening or disagreeable experience you forfeit your Will Power. Every time you yield to something that's lazy or easy or silly, you weaken it.

BUT EVERY TIME YOU FACE REALITY AND CINCH IN YOUR BELT AND TACKLE IT, YOU BUILD A MENTAL AND SPIRITUAL ARMOR AGAINST THE INEVITABLE FUTURE TEST. YOU DETERMINE YOUR OWN POWER TO USE YOUR WILL AGAINST YOUR WEAKNESS.

You're as strong or as weak as all your past decisions. They may not have seemed important decisions at the time. Chances are they didn't. Did you put off fixing that screen door and go to the movies instead? Did you stack the dishes and let them be until tomorrow morning? Or slop around the house in a kimono all day because it was such a nuisance to dress up? Did you skip the front page news because it bored you? Or loaf with the fellows around the corner bar because you didn't want to say "no," although you knew darn well that the youngsters needed new shoes and the house rent was overdue?

THEN, RIGHT THEN AND THERE, YOU MADE OR WRECKED YOUR WILL POWER. THEN AND THERE YOU DETERMINED THE TENSILE STRENGTH OF YOUR CHARACTER AGAINST THE TEST TO COME.

Barring those who were born flawed, we are as strong as we wish to be. That wish is not born in one certain hour at one certain crisis. It is born with every impulse, every trivial act, every secret thought.

THOSE THOUGHTS AND DEEDS MAY HAVE SEEMED TRIVIAL TO YOU BUT ACTUALLY NO THOUGHT OR DEED IS TRIVIAL OR SECRET. SOONER OR LATER THERE WILL COME A SUPREME CHALLENGE AND A FINAL PAY-OFF. THEN YOU WILL KNOW WHETHER OR NOT YOU BUILT YOURSELF A BACKBONE.

DON'T ENVY THE STRONG, DECISIVE CHAP. START GETTING THAT WAY YOURSELF.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Nov. 14, 1922.

Plant of the Browning Engineering company was sold at public auction for $125,000 to B. F. Miles, Cleveland manufacturer.

Rev. Herbert S. Garnes was speaker at Rotary club meeting held at Elks' grill.

"All Aboard" was presented at Opera House by Westinghouse players.

Frank Them was severely shocked by touching high voltage wire at industrial plant.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Keys, Bellville.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sigler, 30 Helen avenue, moved into new home at 561 West Third street.

Party was given for little Beulah McCutchan, 115 Penn avenue, on her birthday anniversary.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Robert Fulton was born on this date in 1765. It was Fulton's Folly, an awkward, steam-powered craft called the "Clermont" demonstrated by him on the Hudson river, 1807, that initiated the great steamboat era of river navigation. Fulton had already made an experiment with a steamship on the river Seine in the presence of Napoleon and had in vain offered to apply steam to the French ships of war in 1803.

As Others See It

Merely a Suggestion.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Busy Week for Anti-Axis Forces, Africa Holds High Spot In News

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

DOWN through the slow, painful days of America's first 11 months of war, only an optimist could have enthused over the nation's battle operations in Europe.

The army set boatload after boatload of soldiers down on the shores of England and Ireland; the navy took tons of war implements through the submarine-ridden Atlantic; the air force ranged over Germany and occupied France, hitting at Nazi war factories.

A fortnight ago Washington war planners still pursued their methodical way.

The nation glued its attention to the south Pacific, where U. S. forces valiantly stood off the Japanese, kept half an eye cocked on Egypt, where the British were in the opening phase of an offensive against wily Marshal Rommel.

Then, one night as swiftly as war came to America 11 months before, teletype printers in scores of newspaper offices jingled the signals that tell newspaper men "flash" news is coming. The machines clattered out:

"Washington — American army lands in French Colonies in Africa."

The story rolled as smoothly and dramatically as the invasion itself. It told how the greatest sea-borne force in history, tremendously equipped with every device of modern war, steamed up to the coasts of French Morocco and Algeria; how U. S. Rangers and Marines clambered up the beaches from assault boats; how paratroopers swooped from the skies to seize airports and other military objectives.

The Operation

It was superbly timed. Only two days before, the British Eighth Army under Gen. B. L. Montgomery had turned its full power on Rommel's forces and 140,000 Axis troops were in frantic retreat toward the Libyan borders. Bombers from England and Egypt struck at both ends of the Axis supply line—Northern Italy and the Mediterranean.

From Vichy, tired old Henri Phillipe Petain learned with "stupor and sadness" of the attack and to President Roosevelt's declaration that the invasion was partially to forestall an Axis move against America, replied: "You attribute to your enemies intentions which have not ever been manifested in acts."

"We shall defend ourselves," said Petain, but the resistance of the Colonials was half-hearted. The Americans, supported by U. S. and RAF air and naval support, engulfed Algiers and captured Admiral Jean Darlan. They closed in on the naval bases at Oran and Casablanca, then pointed for Tunisia while Petain took charge of Vichy's land, sea and air forces in a desperate attempt to hold back the tide.

The Background

As the campaign rolled along, President Roosevelt disclosed many details of the plan, which actually got under way in midsummer. It was no hand-me-down job, said the president, but a tailor-made, custom-built job that had to fit.

Africa was decided upon, he said, because a second front was needed in 1942. The possibility of a frontal assault on France was considered, but discarded because of the limitations on shipping, soldier training and production.

Camouflage, Allied Style.

American men and supplies continued to roll into England; the "test invasion" at Dieppe drew staggering losses which, at length, were widely publicized; Joseph Stalin's call for a second front met embarrassed silence, Wendell Willkie's, mild rebuke.

A month ago, many a Londoner heard "something awfully big" was in the wind.

Ten days ago, the Axis, jittered over a heavy concentration of British naval forces at Gilbraltar, finally came right out with the prediction that England was planning some sort of operation in the Mediterranean. Events indicated, however, that the British had maneuvered the forces so well that the Axis believed a move to reinforce Malta was in the making.

The other denouement came on the diplomatic front, when Secretary of State Cordell Hull, receiving the news that Vichy had decided to break relations with the U. S., gave correspondents to understand that now, Vichy's attitude toward this country was a matter of great indifference.

Official and semi-official sources then sketched how, from the time the Mediterranean venture was decided upon, the U. S. had gone far to stay on speaking terms with Nazi-nesting Vichy.

For months before the blow fell, American civilian observers had been scattered throughout the French African possessions, compiling information, cultivating friendly Frenchmen, countering pro-German sentiment.

The Men

If the thousands of American soldiers breathed faster as they neared the African shore for their first combat of the war, perhaps they were in elite company. For their commander, Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, was going under fire for the first time in his life, too.

Gen. Eisenhower headed the list of high-ranking officers mapping and conducting the invasion. Seasoned in peace time but not by war, this 52-year-old native of Tyler, Tex., was unknown to the majority of Americans when he was sent to London last June to become commanding general of the European theatre.

Texas Ike.

"Ike" Eisenhower came out of West Point in 1915, a strutting young second lieutenant in the infantry. He never got overseas in World War, but gained a reputation as domestic instructor, finally organizing and training engineer and tank corps.

Less than a decade ago he was shifted to the Philippines, served as an aide to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and reached home shortly before the Japanese invasion.

The campaign was another exciting page in the already glamorous career of Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle, who popped up as head of the invading air forces. The 45-year-old Doolittle, leader of the April raid on Tokyo, was on the African scene only a couple of days when his co-pilot was wounded in enemy action, and Doolittle brought the plane home safely.

'Blood and Guts'.

Assigned to the armored force command was rough, tough Maj. Gen. George S. Patton, who is nicknamed "Blood and Guts" and who says, when warned against some of his seemingly reckless acts in maneuvers, "I expect to die some day." Patton was a track star at West Point, a hero of World War I, and maintains: "We have the best tanks in the world. But you win wars with guts, not machines." He once was ordered to Hawaii and went, not by transport, but in his own sailboat which he navigated most of the way by dead reckoning. He is 57, a native of Pasadena.

Another comparative "youngster" is 50-year-old Major Gen. Charles W. Ryder, who brought about the quick capitulation of Algiers, and the capture of Admiral Darlan, and who pointed the spearhead of the drive further across Africa. A. Kansan, a West Pointer and an infantry officer, he was cited for heroism in France in World War I, later served in Germany with the Army of Occupation.

The squeeze play on Oran was in charge of Major Gen. Lloyd Fredendall, 59, also a West Pointer, and one of the Army's outstanding tacticians. A native of Wyoming, he served with MacArthur in the Philippines.

The Future

When President Roosevelt made public the occupation of the Colonies he emphasized a threefold purpose:

1—Effective second front assistance to Russia.

2—A step toward the liberation of France.

3—Forestalling any Axis attack on the Americas.

The point he did not make, and the one upon which amateur strategists hopped immediately, was the almost limitless opportunity of invading Europe across the Mediterranean.

How aware he was of this Adolf Hitler demonstrated before the campaign boiled into its fifth day. In a characteristic bold stroke, he took the one course remaining—a course he had deftly side-stepped for two and a half years—sending his armies swarming into Unoccupied France, formally ending the armistice of June 24, 1940.

For the second time in a week, Henri Petain cried "Foul!" He protested to Hitler, and Vichy reported that he had set France free to defend itself against the aggression.

While a demilitarized France would be no match for German armed force, the Allies cheered as various French leaders lined up with the veteran General Henri Giraud, designated head of French African soldiers fighting on the side of the Allies.

The French fleet, once the second strongest in Europe, took on new importance. Both sides kept tabs on the main units of the fleet based in Toulon, auxiliary units decommissioned at Alexandria, and at Martinique, where the aircraft carrier Bearn has been immobilized since the armistice. Some units went into Allied custody when naval bases at Oran, Casablanca and Algiers fell.

One certainty emerged from the mass of confused reports: Germany was prepared to throw everything into a desperate fight to prevent encirclement. German and Italian troops sped to Tunis, racing the Americans, and backstopping fugitive Marshal Rommel. Italian troops crossed the borders into southern France, leaving German soldiers to the more formidable task of facing the Americans and British.

In London, Prime Minister Churchill went before parliament, promised a second front across the channel or North Sea "in due course."

". . . Many things are going to happen in the next few days. I should be merely presuming if I attempted to give a digested opinion on the situation. . . ."

The campaign against Rommel he described flatly as a victory, but then characterized it as a prelude to the United States' "mighty undertaking" in Africa.

"Now, this is not the end. It is not even the beginning of the end. But it is, perhaps, the end of the beginning."

Fruit of Conquest

The Allies, by taking over North Africa, will start shaping the destinies of almost 2,000,000 square miles of territory, approximately 18,000,000 people.. The riches of Morocco, Algeria, Tunis and Libya are largely agricultural. Although much of North Africa is barren waste, cattle, grain and fruit flourish in the more fertile sections. Mineral resources are slight. Tunisia has small deposits of lead, iron and zinc. Morocco has some copper, lead and zinc, mostly undeveloped.

Pacific

12,000 Miles Away.

While American soldiers rolled up initial successes in Africa, two other contingents were proving that Yankees can fight just as well on the other side of the globe.

Deep in New Guinea, American troops staged one of the most spectacular advances of the war—and it was nearly overlooked in the crush of news from the Mediterranean front.

They were specialists, the New Guinea fighters, trained for jungle fighting, even to their green uniforms, their emergency food rations of rice, their vicious flat-bladed knives.

Not until they smashed into the heart of the Japanese concentration near Buna, on the northeast coast of New Guinea, did the army disclose that they had been flown to battle in huge transport planes from Australia. The men themselves stepped from the planes, inquired "Where are we?" and then were started off in the right direction to "give those little men plenty of condensed hell."

It was the continuation of a steady gain through the Papuan sector of the island, started a fortnight ago when Australians went back over the Owen Stanley mountains, wrested Kokoda from the Japs.

Boss Marine Speaks.

From the other center of the Pacific fighting—the Solomons—Americans got a heartening report, right out of the feed box.

Boss of all the marines, Lt. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, returned to Washington after inspecting his men on embattled Guadalcanal. Said the general: (1) It is going to become increasingly difficult for the Japanese to put reinforcements there; (2) The U. S. now holds numerical superiority on Guadalcanal.

When Holcomb arrived at Guadalcanal, the air score was 290 Japanese planes lost to 62 for the U. S.

"I told the men it was 5-to-1 for us. They protested it wasn't quite that. . . . So on the day we left 20 Zeros came in and none got back. We lost no planes. That makes it 310 to 62, exactly five to one."

BOMBARDMENT SOFTENS JAPS

U. S. Warships Pour Shells on Foe at Guadalcanal For 10 Hours.

cisco was "slightly" damaged when a disabled, burning Japanese plane crashed into the ship. The destroyer Buchanan was hit by a five-inch shell from a shore battery.

The navy said 30 men were killed on the San Francisco while five Buchanan crewmen lost their lives.

Apparently thousand of shells were hurled into the Jap positions near Tassafaronga, 20 miles to the westward of Henderson field.

The American gunners destroyed 30 or 75 large landing boats. Several others were damaged. Shore batteries were silenced and large fires started.

There was no mention by the navy of land action on Guadalcanal.

In recent days, navy communiques have mentioned advances on the eastern flank but no reference was made to any progress on the western sector. It was presumed the naval bombardment would facilitate efforts of the American force to smash the Japanese troop concentrations in that direction.

PLANS DEMAND ON CONTRACTOR

Grimes Declares Lombardo To Be Told to Finish Route 30 South Lane.

established at each end to permit winter use without too much of a bog resulting.

After the job was started in July, 1941, Lombardo Brothers accepted other contracts to which equipment was moved from the route 30 project, the engineers say. Without submitting proof, it has been contended that the removals were at the direction of government agencies pushing war department projects.

Engineers some weeks ago refused to comment when asked if failure of the contractors to meet the state-fixed prevailing wage of 82½ cents an hour made operative last June had slowed up the job.

Principal excuse for the 90-day extension request, seemingly well-rehearsed by state highway department officials, has been that a corresponding time delay was caused by governmental priorities delaying the delivery of structural steel for the B and O and Erie bridges.

After this material was received it was pleaded that inability to hire welders held up the job, especially the Erie subway structure.

SOLVES ROBBERY

Galion Youth, Now In Navy, Confesses Looting Store.

GALION—A 20-year-old Galion boy who is now serving in the United States army has signed a full confession to committing the early morning robbery of the National Mailing company last Oct. 27, according to Chief of Police Merle D. Gow. Herman L. Ricker and Russell L. Post, managers of the company, have refused to file charges against the youth pending his good behaviour in the armed forces.

The five men's wrist watches and four ladies' watches which were valued at $500 have been returned to the company. Chief Gow said that the solution to the robbery came partly as a result of alert citizens who noticed unusual behaviour on the part of the accused youth and reported it to the department. Also an attempt was made to dispose of some of the watches.

Here, G. M. Watson and Mrs. Watson are carrying on with business as usual while the store partner, E. R. Swank, works out with the signal corps at Fort Mead, Md. Both are local boys with a record of 14 years' business experience in Mansfield.

The Swank and Watson shop carries a complete and striking selection of jewelry, fine diamonds, gift items to include costume jewels, swank men's jewelry and small leather goods featuring an attractive assortment of military gifts.

Mr. Watson calls special attentioin to his line of new Eversharp pens and pencils, appropriate gifts this year when letters are flying thick and fast between Uncle Sam's boys and the folks back home.

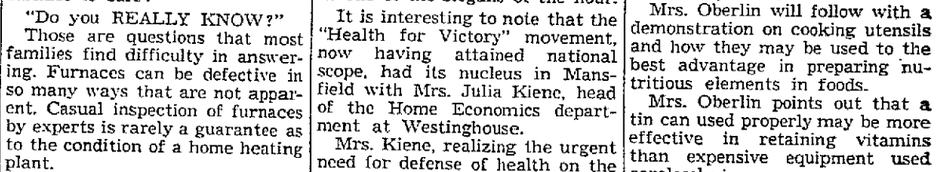
A wide assortment of Hallmark greeting cards is also displayed here.

Another important service to Mansfielders is the store's watch repair shop where B. H. Wagner, veteran watch maker, gives expert attention to all makes of watches.

There is absolutely no change in policy at the store since Mr. Swank is in the service, his partner declares. Continuing, Mr. Watson states that although many popular gifts of other years are not available now, replacements have been made and those fashioned of war time materials are, in many cases, more attractive than gifts have been in pre-priority years.

Designers and manufacturers, Watson says, have responded with skill and daring to the need for change so that gifts of surprising uniqueness and utility have evolved.

So if you're searching for something new for that Christmas stocking, see the stock at Swank and Watson's.



This picture indicates the extensive selections of Christmas greeting and gift merchandise that is being shown by Swank & Watson, jewelers, 89 North Main street. Standing in the picture are watch repairman, B. H. Wagner, Proprietor G. M. Watson, and Mrs. Watson.

Your Furnace Can Be Fume-Cheked Without Charge

"Do you know whether your furnace is safe?"

"Do you REALLY KNOW?"

Those are questions that most families find difficulty in answering. Furnaces can be defective in so many ways that are not apparent. Casual inspection of furnaces by experts is rarely a guarantee as to the condition of a home heating plant.

A remarkable recent chemical development, available free to all homes in Mansfield, has made an exact science of testing furnaces. Fume-Cheking is the name of the process and it is available exclusively through the Allen Knapp Heating company, 130 North Walnut street.

Mr. Knapp will Fume-Chek your furnace without charge or obligation. Just phone 4406-6 and arrangements will be made. After your furnace has been Fume-Cheked you will know whether there is danger of carbon-monoxide poisoning, danger from fire or excessive use of coal.

Local Nutrition Program Hailed Nationally

"Health for Victory" is hailed as one of the slogans of the hour.

It is interesting to note that the "Health for Victory" movement, now having attained national scope, had its nucleus in Mansfield with Mrs. Julia Kiene, head of the Home Economics department at Westinghouse.

Mrs. Kiene, realizing the urgent need for defense of health on the home front, prepared a series of nutrition classes which are now being held for homemakers all over America.

Sponsored by Ohio Public Service here, these health classes are planned especially for those preparing meals in the homes of defense workers employed at the Ideal Electric Manufacturing company, the Gorman - Rupp company, the Barnes Manufacturing company, The Hugh-Keenan company and Westinghouse.

The importance of balanced meals is stressed at these demonstrations and practical suggestions made on how to select and prepare foods to be assured of sufficient vitamins and simple cooking methods to prevent destruction of food values.

The second in a series of these Health for Victory club gatherings will be held Friday, Nov. 20, from 2 to 3:30 p. m. in the Westinghouse auditorium.

Mrs. Irene Oberlin, Home Economist at OPS and Myron D. Miller, range supervisor for Ohio Public Service and an authority on dietetics, are in charge of the program which will include the showing of a film, "V Men and V Women." The picture shows the worth of vitamized cooking as compared with antiquated methods.

Mrs. Oberlin will follow with a demonstration on cooking utensils and how they may be used to the best advantage in preparing nutritious elements in foods.

Mrs. Oberlin points out that a tin can used properly may be more effective in retaining vitamins than expensive equipment used carelessly.

Attendants at the classes, held each month, will be provided with a monthly meal guide.

CLUB HEARS PLEA TO PLANT TREE SEEDS

Town and Country Garden Members Will Plant Dogwood Seeds to Help War Effort; Hear Review.

AT YESTERDAY'S meeting Town and Country Garden club members pledged themselves to help with the war effort by planting dogwood trees to replace those being cut down for making shuttles, when Mrs. H. M. Gibbs, club's conservation chairman, gave each member dogwood seeds to plant.

Mrs. Gibbs in telling members further about the dogwood making the best shuttles reported to the women that she is sending 1,000 seeds to Margaret Suhr Reed, Cleveland, helping to carry on the drive in that city, who had contacted her for seeds, which Mrs. Gibbs recently collected from her large dogwood trees on her cabin grounds.

The eighteen members meeting with Mrs. Harry Longsdorf were served luncheon at small tables in the living room which was attractively decorated with bowls of pink geraniums.

For the program Mrs. Earl Clark gave an interesting book review of Dwight Farnham's "The Embattled Male" which dealt with the "battle of the sexes" in the making and caring for gardens. Welcomed as a new member into the club was Mrs. Albert Schwein.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, November 15.

Sunday's horoscope is not a very propitious one, as the ruling figures are found in the domestic, affectional or social affiliations, which indicate inharmonious conditions generally if not more active forms of friction or unhappiness. It is probable that relations with group, community or public may not be constructive. It would be well to retire to religious environs, where spiritual and physical health abound.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of inactivity and indifferent success, in both their business and private affairs. But little headway would be gained in public, community or group interests, and in social, domestic or affectional life it may be necessary to safeguard happiness and peace of mind and health.

For Monday, November 16.

Monday's astrological augury is for a particularly lively and enterprising day, with all things moving under high tempo and toward ambitious goals. Nevertheless this may not all be plain sailing since there are signs of all sorts of postponements, delays, obstacles and opposition from elders, employers and also strangers or "busybodies." Maintain poise, harmony and unity and all should be well, and there is bound to be happiness in social and affectional relations.

Those whose birthday it is may plan for a very lively year with much energy, initiative and enterprise in inaugurating new objectives. This despite the opposition of elders, as well as employers and strangers. Obstacles and antagonisms should melt away before poise, good will, harmony and finesse. The private life should likewise bring happiness and accomplishment.

THEATERS

Stars Galore.

"Tales of Manhattan," the most widely discussed picture of the year, opens at the Ohio theater today. Its phenomenal cast stars Charles Boyer, Rita Hayworth, Ginger Rogers, Henry Fonda, Charles Laughton, Edward G. Robinson, Paul Robeson, Ethel Waters and "Rochester." Julien Duvivier directed from a script by Ben Hecht, Ferenc Molnar, Donald Ogden Stewart, Samuel Hoffenstein, Alan Campbell, Ladislas Fodor, L. Vadnai, L. Gorog, Lamar Trotti, and Henry Blankfort. The film was produced at 20th Century-Fox by Boris Morros and S. P. Eagle. Unamiously acclaimed wherever it has played, "Tales of Manhattan" has been called as exciting as New York's skyline.

Madison Attractions.

RKO Radio's "Here We Go Again," unites for the second time those two famous radio duos. Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy and Fibber McGee and Molly in the starring roles of a feature film. The picture starts at the Madison today. To these popular fun-makers are added Harold Peary, known as The Great Gildersleeve: Ginny Simms, song bird of the airways; Ray Noble and his orchestra; Bill Thompson, noted dialect and character comedian of the Fibber McGee and Molly radio program, and Mortimer Snerd, another of the popular Edgar Bergen ventriloqual creations. All these characters play themselves in the picture, which is laid at an outdoor mountain resort, and each contributes his own particular brand of hilarious comedy. "Highways By Night" is the co feature.

Was Campus Queen.

Donna Reed, campus queen discovered as a screen charmer, and who scored with Wallace Beery in "The Bugle Sounds," won her most exacting emotional role to date as a result. She plays the socialite fiancee of a strange young man with a dual personality in M-G-M's "Calling Dr. Gillespie" with Lionel Barrymore and Philip Dorn, showing at the Ritz. The fiance, who eventually becomes a police problem is played by Philip Brown, New York stage actor who scored recently in "H. M. Pulham, Esq." "Riders of the West" is the second attraction.

Uses Many Boats.

Columbia, which in the twenty-plus years of its life has built almost every boat known to the seven seas, recently constructed another, and a new one. For "Submarine Raider," a drama of Pearl Harbor teaming John Howard and Marguerite Chapman at the Park theater, the studio built a large section of a Japanese navy aircraft carrier. The set, at Columbia's Burbank ranch, includes a flight deck and takeoff and landing apparatus. The craft is patterned after an actual carrier, the Ryuzyo, and, because it may be put to future use is semi-permanent in construction. Second feature is "Westward Ho."

New P. T. A. Elects Mrs. Wilma Dudley

Parents of Buena Vista school district met with Mrs. Irene Phelps, teacher, last evening to organize a Parent-Teacher association. Officers named were Mrs. Wilma Dudley, president; Frank McMullen, vice president; and Mrs. Albert Chronister, secretary-treasurer.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

But it was not Olga whom I was to see, as it turned out. Early in the morning my telephone rang, and Olina's voice came over the wire.

"Would it be possible for me to see you a few minutes this morning?" she asked.

"Come right over now," I said cordially.

"Thank you. I'll be right over," she said.

When in less than five minutes her knock sounded, I had Dicky and my father beyond hearing in the living room of the adjoining suite.

She came in with a strangely diffident air, for usually she is regally poised. She carried a small blue writing case, which she placed on a table beside her when we were seated.

"Mama meant to see you herself," she said, "but she has one of her headaches this morning, and father will not let her leave her bed until it has vanished. So —I came in her place."

Brings a Letter.

"I am so sorry your mother isn't well," I told her, "but I am always glad to see you. What can I do for you?"

For answer she took from the portfolio the fan letter and drawing which we had pored over together when she first received them, and laid them on the table, then put into my hand another letter addressed to her, care of Philip Veritzen.

"I received this yesterday," she said, "but this is the first chance I have had to bring it to you."

"You want me to read this?" I said, and she voiced a hasty assent.

"Yes. You know he stipulated that it must be shown only to a government operative, so Mama wished you to see it, and then turn it over to your father."

I read the letter slowly, twice, memorizing it as I read.

"To the gracious princess, Olina," it began. "You and your mother are in great danger. Do not go on the streets, or anywhere outside your own home, unless you are heavily guarded. And have guards posted around your home. This is not idle chatter. I know whereof I speak. Be careful!

"If you desperately need me—not otherwise, for I am a hunted man—insert this personal in the New York ——. 'A moi! P. O.', and I will be at your side within an hour after it appears."

"Just a minute!" I said. "I will take this immediately to my father in the next suite. Please stay here until I come back."

I went swiftly through the camouflaged door and gave the letter to my father. He read it and handed it back.

"Keep it safely," he said, "and tell Olina that she is already heavily guarded, although she does not see the guards. I am thankful for this bit of information, however. It confirms something on which I have been working. Please keep her with you a little while. I want to talk with her."

Olina In Doubt.

When I went back Olina had the fan letter and picture in her hands. I gave her my father's message, but saw that her thoughts were elsewhere. Her face was drawn and tense, and her great lustrous eyes shadowed with tears she was too proud to shed.

"Oh, Aunt Madge," she said, suddenly, as if the words were wrenched from her. "May I tell you how that old story this painting has brought back to me so vividly?"

I hesitated, for I knew how proud and reserved this exiled royal princess had always been. When she again gained control of herself, might she not keenly regret having confided in me?

But then came a sound which dispelled all my doubts; the sound of a sob, quickly choked back as her voice broke into a wailing question.

"Do you perhaps think I ought not tell you the story?" she asked.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T RAISE A MINOR

That would be insane advice if you followed it all the time. It is the soundest possible counsel if you add the words "except when you are unable to bid another suit, or No Trump, or when you have a part score." Even bidding the other minor is better bridge than raising your partner's minor as it shows him a second suit stopped and may prove the key to a perfectly safe No Trump game, requiring only nine tricks instead of eleven.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♦
Pass	2 ♦	2 ♠	2 NT
Pass	3 ♦	Pass	4 ♦
2. Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♦
Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠	1 NT
Pass	2 ♦	Pass	3 NT

West felt a little ticklish about leaving in that 3-No Trumps at the second table, but decided to do it, since his takeout of 1-No Trump to 2-Diamonds had rather warned East that his heart bid was not so hot, and was justified mainly by the fact that he had a diamond fit.

The diamond declarer at Table 1 exactly made his contract, losing one trick in spades and two in hearts, but it of course gave him no game, whereas the 3-No Trumps declarer took one less trick, but scored a game.

Against the No-Trumper South led the club 4, the Q, K and A scoring. With no immediate entry to dummy East had to try to drop the diamond K with the A, which worked, giving him then plenty of entries to dummy to try finesses in other suits. After using the diamond Q for that purpose, he led the spade 2 to the Q and A, returned to dummy with the diamond J and offered the spade 5. North soundly ducked and the J won. Now the club J, diamond 10 and diamond 6 brought the total to nine tricks. The last four were lost, but East didn't care much because he had his game.

Your Week-End Lesson.

Why is it that a 9-spot is the only card in the deck which is never from a suit of four cards or more, when it is led in an unbid suit against a No Trump contract by a player who strictly observes the conventional meaning of leads?

Toledo Woodward Beats Tygers 32-14 In Final Game

Sport Podge by REX HESS

The eight column streamer headline over the Springfield News sport page said:

"Ah, Sweet Mystery" of Springfield's 1942 Football Team.

And then the writer, Loren Schultz, posed the question:

"Are the Wildcats good, bad, or average?"

Which must have been all very confusing, even as confusing as the play of the Wildcats has been this season. Schultz says he doesn't know the answer, and tells his readers that their guess is as good as any.

* * *

My guess, expressed in this space a week or more ago, is that Springfield was the most overrated team in the state at the beginning of the present season.

On the Mansfield schedule I ranked Springfield right back of Massillon and Canton McKinley, and that's just about the way Mansfield's coaching staff picked 'em.

As prognosticators we should worry,
We were wrong, but we're not sorry.

Schultz drags out the one about "there was a little girl who had a little curl, right in the middle of her forehead, and when she was good she was very, very good, and when she was bad she was horrid." And applies it to this year's Springfield team.

He says that at times the Wildcats displayed so much power and finesse that Coach Jim McDonald was amazed—and then again "well you know what we're driving at if you saw the Middletown game or that affair with Mansfield."

That Mansfield affair, Mansfield 6, Springfield 0, "was explained away at the time as a letdown," says Schultz. Here in Mansfield we believed the Tygers had hit their stride for the first time.

And in spite of the fact that Springfield's record shows a 7-0 defeat by Cincinnati Western Hills, a 6-0 loss to Mansfield, a 20-7 defeat by Middletown, and a 0-0 tie with Columbus East, Schultz beats the all-Ohio drums for two Springfield linemen and declares five more are not far behind the chosen two in ability.

* * *

Take away his fun? O my no,
Let him have his all-Ohio—
We're happy with that six-to-o.

Breaks Helped, But Bears Deserved to Win

Visitors Showed Fighting Spirit After Trailing at Half 12-14

BETTER acclimated to the bitter, sub-freezing, windy weather, the Bears of Toledo Woodward high frisked to a 32-14 victory over Mansfield last night at Stadium field in the last game of a not too successful season for the Tygers.

Mansfield had a chance to win. The Tygers staged a great and courageous comeback in the second quarter after trailing 12-0 to take a 14-12 lead at the half.

Toledo deserved to win on the fight it showed at the start of the third quarter when the Bears marched 65 yards for the deciding touchdown.

But the breaks really decided the game, as the breaks could be expected to do on a night when a thermometer on the side of the high school building said 22 degrees above zero, and when a strong wind sometimes sent punts floating back toward the kicker.

Just look at the role the breaks played in the scoring:

First touchdown—Toledo, taking the ball on the Mansfield 36-yard line saw the Tygers penalized five yards for offside on three straight plays. And the first time the Bears officially carried the ball, Varwig went off tackle, cut back through a demoralized Mansfield team, and ran 21 yards for a touchdown.

Second touchdown—Bill Lewis, punting into the strong wind, saw the ball actually hang high in the air and then come back to bounce out of bounds for a one-yard loss on the 10-yard line where Woodward took over. Varwig passed to Sloan for the touchdown.

Third touchdown — Mansfield actually marched 70 yards for this one. No break here. Jim Burrage continually got away for long gains on end around plays until the ball was on the Woodward 12-yard line. Butterfield tossed a buck pass to Burrage who scampered over for the score. Lewis kicked goal and it was 12-7.

Fourth touchdown — Breaks aplenty here. Toledo fumbled the kickoff, recovered on its seven-yard line. The strong wind sent the punt out of bounds on the 14 and Mansfield was in scoring territory. Mansfield fumbled, Toledo recovering on the 10. Toledo fumbled and Burrage recovered on the 17. Burrage on an end around went to the five for a first down where Schmidt scored on a bootlegger play. Lewis kicked goal and Mansfield led 14-12.

Fifth touchdown — Mansfield kicked out of bounds. Toledo taking on the 35. MacKenzie and A. Ustaszewski banged the line for two first downs to the Mansfield 40. Here a long pass from MacKenzie bounced out of Sloan's numb hands. But instead of an incomplete pass, the ball bounced into the arms of Santus who raced 25 yards for the score. Ustaszewski kicked the point and Toledo led 19-14.

Sixth touchdown — Lewis, leaping high in the air, batted down MacKenzie's pass—batted it down into the hands of Knierim who ran 30 yards unmolested. Ustaszewski again boosted the point; 26-14.

* * *

Seventh touchdown—Two minutes to play. Mansfield passing wildly in its own teritory. Wisniewski, Toledo center, intercepted Butterfield's pass and ran 40 yards for a touchdown. Score: 32-14.

You think there weren't breaks in the scoring summary?

Statistics will show Woodward wasn't 18 points better than Mansfield if you can get any comfort out of statistics.

Woodward gained only 17 yards more than Mansfield by rushing, made only one more first down, completed only one more pass although attempting more than twice as many, averaged only one more yard on punts.

But Woodward, on four complete passes, two of which could have been incomplete but for the breaks, made 105 yards to 43 for Mansfield on three complete passes.

High School Ticket Director George Sherman estimated that, including season ticket holders, students, and kids, there were less than 1,500 spectators. Which proves that there are still people in Mansfield smart enough to stay home in wintry weather.

Those brave souls who attended the season's finale flirted with colds, influenza and pneumonia.

But none were so brave as the band majorettes who went through their usual paces in their usual scanty uniforms. And the band, making a brave effort to keep warm, gave an unusually fine performance for the mid-winter weather.

NUMBER 1 GEORGIA HAS EASY CONTEST

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. —(INS)—The nation's current Number One football aggregation, and undefeated, untied Georgia Bulldogs, enjoy the second week of a three-week period of easy football when they meet the University of Chattanooga today.

Georgia has won eight consecutive contests this season, and the Bulldogs' great Frankie "Fireball" Sinkwich, of Youngstown, O., and his understudy, Charley Trippi, have been piling up yardage and scores pointing to a national record. Coach Wallace Butts, however, indicated that the Georgia stars might see very little if any action today.

Buckeye Freshmen Defeat Hoosiers

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. —(AP)— Ohio State university's freshman football team has two intercollegiate victories under its belt today.

The Buckeye yearlings followed up last week's defeat of Pittsburgh with a 13-7 win over the Indiana freshmen yesterday.

Tommy Phillips hurled a 20-yard pass to Russell Wolf for Ohio's first touchdown in the opening quarter and Wolf scooted 16 yards on a reverse for the second Buckeye score in the declining minutes of the final period.

* * *

A 16-yard pass, Stuart (Red) Faught to Francis Carter, put the Hoosiers on the one-yard line in the third period and Rex Grossman plunged for the touchdown on the next play.

Lou Groza kicked the Ohio extra point and Henry Bobak booted Indiana's.

PIRRONE LOSES

CHICAGO —(AP)— Joe Pirrone of Cleveland, swinging wildly, lost an eight-round decision last night to Al Gomez of Chicago. Gomez weighed 134½ and Pirrone 137.

Football Taken to Crowds

War-Time Policy Seen In Today's Schedule.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK — (AP) — If the upsets to date haven't convinced the fans there is something different in this football season, a glance at today's program should settle all doubts:

Yale vs. Princeton at New York.

Illinois vs. Ohio State at Cleveland.

Cornell vs. Dartmouth at Buffalo.

Columbia vs. Navy at Baltimore.

Ohio Wesleyan vs. Boston university, cancelled.

The Ohio Wesleyan-Boston university game was dropped because the mid-western eleven was unable to get travel accommodations to the east while the four other games were shifted from their campus settings under the war-born policy of bringing the game to the spectators instead of lugging the public to the contests.

But there are two sites, at least, where the football on display and the crowds in attendance today will be of the pre-Pearl Harbor variety.

In one, once-beaten Alabama brings its defensive-minded outfit to Atlanta for a meeting with unbowed Georgia Tech. The other contest renews the Michigan-Notre Dame rivalry that was broken off at the turn of the century over an eligibility question.

Both at Atlanta and at South Bend only the capacity of the stadiums will limit the attendance. In the southern city they are all eager to see what Clint Castleberry and Eddie Prokop will do when the collide with that Crimson line and at South Bend the fans want to determine for themselves which is the better back, Angelo Bertelli of the Irish or Tom Kuzma.

But the clubs that changed their game sites aren't going to do so badly.

Every one of the 34,000 seats in Baker field was sold early in the week for the 66th meeting of Yale and Princeton; Cornell and Dartmouth expect to attract 20,000 to their Ivy league brush; there'll be 40,000 watching Paul Governali passing at Baltimore and some 65,000 will sit in on the Illinois-Ohio state proceedings with the Big Ten lead at stake.

Iowa, tied with the Cleveland combatants for the loop top, is at Minnesota, whose Bill Daley isn't expected to get in the game; Wisconsin goes against Northwestern in the Purple's last chance of the year for a Big Ten win; Indiana entertains hapless Kansas State and Purdue argues with Michigan State.

Tulsa will try to prove its high rank by spilling Baylor and Texas Christian, one of the early season powers, hopes to apply the brakes to Texas' march to the southwest conference flag.

Missouri, its casually list shrinking, heads south for Oklahoma and a game that will virtually decide the Big Six crown. On the west coast St. Mary's pre-flighters resume action at Washington and Southern California is host to Oregon.

Ohio Colleges Get Even Break

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ushering in today's 13-game football program involving Ohio colleges, Buckeye teams broke even in two games with out-of-state foes last night while a third contest ended in a scoreless tie.

* * *

Baldwin-Wallace scored at will in a 51-0 triumph over the Grosse Ile (Mich.) naval base squad at Berea. Meanwhile, the Case School of Applied Science took a 21-6 beating at Cleveland from Bucknell of Lewisburg, Pa.

* * *

Findlay and Bowling Green, tangling at Findlay in an Ohio conference game, were unable to score although Bowling Green threatened three times before fumbling.

Osmanski Lost To Bear Lineup

CHICAGO — (INS) — If the Chicago Bears clinch the National Football league western division leadership Sunday in their game with the Green Bay Packers at Wrigley Field, Chicago, they will do it without the services of Bill Osmanski.

This was the word today from Co-Coach Hunk Anderson who said definitely:

"Bill won't play. He's not in shape to run, but he'll be in there for us in later games."

* * *

Osmanski wanted to get in against the Packers, partly because it was a game against this team early in the season in which he suffered a knee injury which has kept him on the bench since. Gary Famiglietti has been playing the fullback position in place of Osmanski.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—There must be some compelling reason when boys go out on a raw November afternoon without enough clothes to keep warm and run five or six miles over a hilly cross-country course . . . and knowing that a couple hundred young men will do just that in the Big Ten meet at Chicago today and as many more will run Monday in the intercollegate A.A.A.A. meet here, this dept. sought a sound explanation . . . the answer from Pete Waters, Manhattan college track coach is: "It's the best conditioner in the world. When boys run cross country in the fall, they're really in shape. Those milers you see in the Garden during the winter prove it." . . . Why is it better than running on a track? . . . "Well, the hills help, but mostly it's because the change of scenery peps them up. Running around in a squirrel cage gets pretty tiresome after a few laps."

IT CAN HAPPEN.

Ever hear of a forward pass catching the receiver instead of vice versa? . . . Well it happened in a schoolboy game at Washington, D. C., between Western and Devitt the other day. . . . Halfback Duke O'Connell of Western pitched a pass . . . the ball hit Quarterback Alex Papanicolas on the back of the neck and stuck between his helmet and shoulder pad. . . . Pap ran 15 yards before he realized what had happened and then he reached around and grabbed the ball, making a 20-yard gain.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Tim Cohane, New York World-Telegram: "It might not be a bad idea to have Williams and Colgate meet for the Shaving Bowl championship. . . . That would be one battle in which both teams would get a good lathering."

Lightweight Champ Quits 'for Good'

WASHINGTON, Pa. — (U.P.) — Lightweight champion Sammy Angott announced here last night that he was quitting the ring "for good" because of an injured right hand.

"Yes, I've quit for good," Angott said. "My right hand's been bothering me ever since I fought Bob Montgomery in Philadelphia about two years ago.

"I've had it operated on and treated since, but it got bad after every fight. I took on three boys in one night at Bowling Green, Ky., a few weeks ago in a U.S.O. benefit, which only made it worse. I guess I'm through for good."

SHELBY SWAMPED

CRESTLINE — Crestline high school gridders ran all over Shelby's Whippets last night for a 37-0 victory. After a scoreless first period, Crestline scored 13 points in the second, 12 in the third and 12 in the fourth.

GOODMAN RELEASED

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Right-fielder Ival Goodman of the Cincinnati Reds has been released to the Chicago Cubs on waivers. He had been with the Reds since 1935 and suffered a batting slump this year. He is 33 years old.

CHUCK COACHES

TOLEDO - (AP) - Charles (Chuck) Chuckovits, once a star basketball player for the University of Toledo, has become head basketball coach of Toledo Waite high school.

Bucks Clash With Illini

Crowd of 65,000 Sees Game at Cleveland.

By LARRY SMITH

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Illinois, the team which has surprised the Western Conference by moving into a first-place tie with Ohio State and Iowa, clashes with the Buckeyes in neutral Cleveland likefront stadium today.

* * *

The Illini are playing their last conference game, and they must win to remain in the championship picture.

A crowd of 65,000 to 70,000 is expected to witness the first Western Conference game ever played in Cleveland.

In their long series that began in 1902 and has run continuously in the Western Conference since 1914, this is the first time Ohio and Illinois have met on a neutral gridiron.

The last Illini win was in 1934 at Champaign, 14 to 13, but the Buckeyes still have a margin of only 16 games to 11, with one tie, in Conference play.

Illinois received a hard blow when Dick Good, the club's ace passer, was shelved with an injured knee in the Notre Dame game.

Elmer Engel, the alert end who grabbed a fumble out of the air and ran 58 yards for a touchdown against Northwestern last week, is bothered with a cold and has lost seven pounds, but stayed in the lineup.

* * *

Bill Durtschi, Ohio's ace punter, is still on the sidelines. Tom Cleary, another strong punter, received a broken wrist in the Pittsburgh game last week and is out for the season.

The field, which was practically ruined by a recent army war show, appears to be in better condition. The new sod has knitted somewhat and the footing may prove firm.

Boudreau Looking For Outfielder

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Note to the ivory hunters (Santa Claus please copy): Lou Boudreau would like to have a flycatcher, preferably one with a house full of reasons for draft deferment.

The Indians' manager dropped into the front office while in town to see the gridders from his Alma Mater, Illinois, meet Ohio State, and also took a look at Cleveland stadium, which made him think of his outfield troubles.

The Indians have only two outfielders "we can be reasonably sure of," he moaned. "We've got Jeff Heath and Roy Weatherly. Maybe we've got Oris Hockett, I don't know. He talked of quitting in the middle of last season to go back to his job in an aircraft factory and maybe he'll decide to stay there now, rather than play ball next year.

* * *

"Buster Mills has gone into the army (air force) and Hank Edwards probably will go before the winter is over."

STOCK MARKET TAKES SLIGHT PRICE TUMBLE

Nation's Department Store Sales Show Increase Of 20 Per Cent.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Slightly lower prices continued to dominate today's early stock market proceedings.

Opening losers included Anaconda, Johns-Manville, Sears Roebuck, Loew's and United Aircraft. Up a shade were General Motors and American Telephone.

Market analysts saw a constructive indicator in the federal reserve board survey disclosing the nation's department store sales for the week ended Nov. 7 exceeded those of the like 1941 period by 20 per cent.

The summary of the bureau of mines showed supplies of domestic and foreign crude petroleum at the end of last week amounted to 236,198,000 barrels, a drop of 3,068,000 barrels.

CHAPTER XVI

"Then I'll sign the contract anyway, you do understand, don't you? I love Bruce. But—"

"Don't be so unhappy about it. Go back to Hollywood and tell Bruce. Perhaps he'll see it your way."

"Perhaps he will," said Livia dubiously. They both knew he would not.

"I'd like Miss Clarkson to see it first," said Bruce to an agent who had shown him a ranch in the San Fernando Valley. Bruce had visited it when it belonged to Buck Baker. Buck was dead, and the last of his five widows had put the estate on the market.

There were twenty acres of good fertile land, with oranges, lemons, walnuts, figs, and vine bushes, and two magnolia trees that had been named for a pair of famous screen lovers. The house was strongly-built with oak beams supporting a living room that covered the entire ground floor.

"When will your fiancee be back in Hollywood?" the agent asked. "I have another prospective customer—"

"She's in Colorado now," said Bruce. "But I know she'll like the place. I'll pay a deposit now. Hold the property for me."

Bruce was due back in San Diego, but he stopped off at his bungalow to pick up some clothes. And found Livia!

"Darling!"

He held her close in his arms, kissed her eyes and hair, then put her at arms' length to look at her.

"I've just bought a house for you," he exulted. "You're coming with me to San Diego, and we'll be married tomorrow in Mexico."

"Sit down a minute," Livia said "I've something to explain."

"About Elizabeth?" he interrupted. "How is she?"

"No, not about Elizabeth."

"Father?"

"No, not your father. It's me."

Bruce waited, his face still glowing with the surprise of finding her there.

"I've just come from Monarch Pictures," Livia said slowly. She waited for him to grasp what she had said, but Bruce was still smiling, and she continued quickly. "I have just signed a contract with them. I'm not supposed to marry for three years."

"You signed that contract?"

"We could be married—secretly," she pleaded "No one would have to know Bruce. I love you. But this chance—"

"Sure, this chance—okay," he said suddenly, "Tell me about it." She explained about Frank MacDonald, the talent scout. And she thought she had won Bruce over because he was silent. But when she said, "We'll get married tomorrow?" Bruce replied gently. "I guess not, Livia. I told you once before I don't like secrets. Have your movie career. I hope it makes you very happy."

He was gone before she could think of anything else to say.

* * *

There were five other girls under stock contract at the Monarch Studio. Anita Clark had been a telephone operator before a talent scout found her in Atlanta. She was dark-haired and pretty in Oriental fashion. Doreen Grant had sung in a small night club in Detroit. Wilma Herman once played "Portia" in a little theater in Dallas. Blond, statuesque Bertha Kramer was an ex-model. Verne Arrowhead was a debutante with an indefatigable mother.

The drama coach, Edda Robinson, a thin woman of 45, had taught some of the biggest names in the business the difficult art of being themselves in front of a camera.

When Livia had been a few days under contract, she was called to the publicity department of the studio and interviewed by Jack Tennant. Jack was bald, fat, had small, bright eyes which he closed when he spoke He smirked appreciatively at Livia and motioned her to sit down

"Cigaret?"

Livia shook her head. "I don't smoke."

"Drink?"

"Very little."

"What are your vices then?"

"Haven't any."

"Are you engaged—or anything like that?"

"In a way I am—and in a way I'm not."

"Make up your mind, sweetie pie."

"Well, I suppose not," she said faintly.

"Good I have just the thing for you" he said Livia was alarmed "What do you mean?" she asked.

"Don't worry your pretty head about anything," he said. After a few more questions the interview was over.

Livia watched the local papers after that, but very little appeared about her, except in the "Gazette" where she was once again publicized as the "Charm Girl" And now if Bruce would only see her or merely answer the telephone, she could be happy.

It was a thrilling adventure going to the studio every morning The gateman knew her and tipped his cap and smiled. It was fun to belong.

Sometimes Edda Robinson took Livia and the others to a set, and explained why this star could act and that one wouldn't last. The afternoons were for publicity chores. Livia posed in every known garment—from a swimming suit to a fur coat that didn't belong to her. She had to meet trains and put her arms around the necks of visiting male celebrities and attend conventions.

Soon she was promoted to non-speaking roles in which the girls were supposed to be cut above the extras. It was exacting and tiring, and the girls must always be fresh, eager, and cooperative. The hours were long and the work harder than when she had been an extra. But one of the advantages of being a stock girl was that the studio provided clothes and tuition.

At the end of the first week Livia accepted Bertha Kramer's offer to share her $40-a-month apartment. Neither of them would have won a prize for good housekeeping.

It was fun though to shop in the big market near the apartment and pretend to know the difference between a tender and tough steak

Bertha collected men with the calm acquisitiveness of a stamp collector. She was generous and invited Livia to take her pick of the male battalion.

"I'm not interested in men," she told Bertha, who laughed inelegantly and replied:

"Nuts."

One evening Livia yielded to Bertha's plea to join her with two men at Victor Hugo's. Livia had spent the afternoon posing for fashion stills in the studio gallery She was tired and depressed She had been under stock contract now for five months. There was only another month of her present contract. And would they deem her of sufficient importance to take up the option?

There had been disturbing rumors of an economy move at the studio. And the first people to go were always the stenographers and the stock girls. Already Anita had been let out, and her empty chair in Edda Robinson's drama class was a daily reminder of the ephemeral quality of a film career.

"You've been working too hard and playing too little," Bertha said when Livia hesitated, "A little fun will give you a better perspective on life."

So Livia went with Bertha. Their escorts were two young actors who recently had come to Hollywood from the New York stage. One of them had divorced a famous film star and was enjoying his new freedom by taking out a different girl every night. The other, with whom he shared a large house on a Beverly hill-top, was quiet, and intelligent.

"Let's dance," he said to Livia. He was a good dancer, and Livia was enjoying herself—until they bumped into Bruce. Bruce was dancing with a beautiful brunet who was the current sensation of Hollywood. He was formal and polite. He introduced her to the star. And Livia introduced him to her partner. There was a slight pause, then Bruce inquired:

"How is the career?"

"Wonderful," Livia said defiantly.

"I'm glad," he replied. The music had stopped, and with a polite inclination of his head, he steered the expensive-looking girl back to the long table presided over by the Countess Saskia.

Livia was miserable and left early. She hired a taxi to take her back alone to the apartment

"You should have stayed. We had fun," Bertha said when she came in yawning at 2 o'clock, 'Say, what's the matter?"

"Nothing," said Livia.

She stayed awake wondering how she could see Bruce.

At breakfast the next day Bertha suddenly exclaimed:

"Well, I'm damned," and put down the newspaper she was reading. "Here — look." She pushed the paper, open at a movie page, across to Livia. Livia read aloud:

"'Charles Fordyce has a new heart interest—Livia Clarkson—and this time it's serious. Intimates predict wedding bells.' But I don't know him," Livia said helplessly.

U. S. Builds Subs, Carriers Twice as Fast Says Leahy.

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Adm. William D. Leahy, chief of staff to President Roosevelt, said last night that the United States was building submarines and aircraft carriers twice as fast as before the war.

Aircraft carriers, he said, were now being built in 17 months; battleships, that used to take five years, in about three; submarines in little more than a year. Modern destroyers were being turned out in six months, a third of the time it formerly took, he said.

"This year's total of American shipbuilding will reach 8,000,000 deadweight tons, more than six times the production for 1941," he said.

COMMUNITY SURVEY ANSWER FORM

EACH DAY OF THE WEEK ..... TO .....

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....

On Page 1 of the paper each day you will find a list of the advertisements to be checked that day.

All you have to do is to decide each day which Large Ad, which Medium Ad and which Small Ad you think will do the advertiser the most good. Just write three names on this blank each day.

$750.00 in awards go to those readers whose selections are nearest to what the majority of readers think. Every week is a separate survey with a dozen or more cash awards each week.

Every member of any family may send in one answer each week and there are many awards each week, but only one award for a good answer will go to any one family in any one week.

I THINK THESE ADS WILL DO THE ADVERTISERS THE MOST GOOD.

You are NOT required to write a letter to receive an award.

The awards are decided on the selections above. We would really appreciate it, though, if you would write a note saying what you DO NOT LIKE and . . . also . . . WHY YOU LIKED some of the good ads.

We sincerely want your suggestions and ideas of how we may improve our advertising service for your benefit. Write your letter in your own way! It's the thoughts and suggestions that matter. You are not being "judged" by your letters. Actually they have nothing to do with the awards . . . but . . . they will be helpful by giving additional information to our merchants.

Your criticisms and suggestions will be given to the merchants to help them to improve their advertisements BUT the merchants will NOT be given the names of those who write the letters. This is so you may say just what you really think without embarrassment.
